ne idea of the magnitude of the great horse sh to be opened at Madison Square Garden on Monday of next week, can be formed when it is learned that 635 animals have been entered. Of this number only 410 can be accommodated in the building, hence many of th rses must be provided with stalls in the stable of the National Horse Show Association, and in other establishments contiguous to the Garden. New-Yor exhibitors are requested by the executive committee to stable their horses, as far as possible, at home, only bringing them to the exhibition building the day and hour appointed for judging the classes in which they are entered. This will be duly advertised in the programme. The rules of the association provide that all animals entered for exhibition shall be brought to the Fourth-ave, entrance of Madison Square Garden between 8 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock in the evening of Saturday next and before 8 o'clock on morning, November 16, being the day appointed for opening the show.

The annual horse show in New-York has come to be one of the great social incidents of this season of the year. It attracts visitors from all parts of the counme roof on this continent. It will be a rare sight,

The classes for carriage horses, four-in-hands and tandems are filled to overflowing, and these exhibits will prove an attractive feature of the programme of entertainment.

CAN GLASSCOCK BE HELD!

TANGLED AFFAIRS OF THE NEW YORK BASE.

The New-York Bareball Club presents a rather pittful spectacle at present. It has got more stockholders, directors and executive committees than hell-players. The club is all right, but the team is about thinned out to a third-baseman. Bassett, and the outsided, Tiernan, Gore and O'Rourke. And the chinness are that even some of these players may desert and follow in the footsteps of Glasscock, Buckley, Richardson, Rurie and Connor. The directors of the local club will probably hold a meeting to-morrow, when an effort will be made to strengthen the condition of the club.

John B. Day, the president of the club, returned to the city yesterday and he was seen at his office in Maiden Lane

The case of Richardson will, in a measure, illustrate the treatment accorded its players by the New-York club. When Richardson first came to New-York his season's salary was $800. He was a rough country lad, and the salary seemed a princely one to him. He did good work, and the local management voluntarily increased his salary by $200, giving him $1,000 instead of $800, as his contract called for.

PURROY'S OVERWHELMING DEFEAT SURPRISED

Annexed District was more complete than even they had expected. The election of James L. Welis to the Assembly, William G. McCrea as Civil Justice, and Henry L. School as Alderman for the Twenty-third Ward, had been predicted by conservative judges of expectedly large. Mr. McCren's plurality was nearly 2,000, out of a total vote of about 14,000. Mr. Wells had a plurality of 896, and Mr. School's plurality was nearly as large. The election of William H. Schott, the Union candidate for Alderman in the Twentyfourth Ward, was somewhat of a surprise. His plurality was only 92, but the defeat of Alderman Lynch in the district which he has represented for several years was a sufficient victory, even if the najority was small. The candidates elected were, as a rule, far superior to their opponents in qualifications for office. The fact that Commissioner Heintz, who has labored diligently for the welfare of the district, has been supported by the majority of the voters will give him new strength in his struggle with the Tammany city boards which have often here tofore refused to listen to his protests. The only ex-planation which Purroy has given of his defeut is that there were 2,000 traitors to Tammany Hall. He probably means that many hundreds voters who had voted the Tammany ticket at some previous elections wer against Tammany Hall this year. Mr. Purroy has some times opposed and sometimes supported Tammany Hall, and cannot lay claim to any great consistency in his ewn conduct. His position of opposition to necessary public improvements has made him so unpopular that he could not hold his followers this year. He has not apparently learned wisdom, for he is more bitter than ever and expresses a determination to contique the fight in which he has thus far been unsuc

REPLYING TO WEAT HE THINKS ARE UNJUST

CHITICISMS-MR. DANA'S BAIL REDUCED. LBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] Boston, Nov. 7.—Controller Lacey, in a talk about the Maverick Bank, said: "You understand that I not close a bank simply because it has met with If these losses be large enough to absorb its has and impair its capital, I can order an as ent on the stockholders to make the capital good, but I can't close it. That step can only be taken capital is all lost, and the bank is unable to pay its debts. Then it becomes insolvent. As to the mittee or person, officially or otherwise, that the bank scintive of the Clearing House Committee called on me in Washington, on Friday last, I informed him that soon as it was their opinion that the bank was sevent I would order it closed, and his answer was dat they were not yet rendy to express that opinion. same opinion, and that conclusion was not ached until Sunday; then the bank was closed within

In these cases the loans were covered by collaterals, which apwere regarded as ample at the time, but which parently were regarded as ample at the time, but which afterward shrank in value. It is not a criminal offence.

I have received a few letters of opposition, but

Mr. Lacey read the dispatch from Washington, in Secretary Foster was quoted as stating that about three or four months ago he had heard rumors the condition of the Maverick Bank, at which time the Controller brought him a recent report of Examiner Magruder, which revealed a bad state of things, and as saying: "All I have to say to you is that if this bank or any other is violating the law or doing saything which it ought not to do close it up at once. You have full authority to act and must assume the

I do not care to discuss that," said Mr. Lacey. "It would be indelicate in me to do so. The Maverick was examined in regular course last January, and you know that if a bank is examined again out of its turn the hape had improved and accomplisation of the bank had improved, and an examination out of would perhaps start rumors and affect its condi-I persisted in the order, and he made the ex-stion, which took a month. After the January examination I ordered that all the paper which did no seem good should be at once secured, and the records show that it was so secured. Every dollar of Ass Potter's indorsements not known to be good was covered by collateral. Thomas Dana gave a mortgage his property here in Boston, which completed his lien, but there was a small balance of Mr. French's not covered by collateral. And there was no evidence not covered by collateral. And there was no evaluance to me that these notes were really loans to the directors, and not genuine loans to the makers, with directors' indersements; I did not know the men personally. Mr. Magruder came to see me in Washington; he talked about the bank, but expressed no fear of its insolvency. He has relatives in Washington especially to talk about the bank. Dut expressed no fear of its insolvency. He has relatives in Washington especially to talk about the bank. The Controller is simply an administrative officer to carry out certain powers given him by law. You gentlemen have probably never held public office, so you do not know what it is to be a target for every one to shoot at. But you must recollect that I have had a tremendous load on my shoulders, all the result of the financial stringency of a year ago. All the disasters and corruption of a continent, so far as National banks are concerned, have halien on my desk, and I have had to appoint twice as many receivers as any other Controller; but my predscessors had similar criticisms to bear, and I suppose that I cannot hope to escape.

The Italian bank in North-st., the "Banca Centrale italiena," has been on the verge of a serious run all the week, but to-dny its fears slackened. The Central Italian is not a great institution, but it is a power in the Italian quarter, and the fallure of the Maverick Bank was the cause of a run on it which lasted from Monday evening until last evening. The banker is Ferdinand De Filippo. His institution comprises a bank, a steamship agency, a labor bureau and an exto me that these notes were really loans to the italian is not a great institution, but it is a power in the italian quarter, and the failure of the Maverick Bank was the cause of a run on it which lasted from Monday evening until last evening. The banker is Ferdinand De Filippo. His institution comprises a bank, a steamship agency, a abore bureau and an exchange office. He did all his large draft business through the Maverick Bank, and had a large deposit there. De Filippo paid out over $20,000 before the reaction came last night.

General Manager Furber, of the Boston and Maine Railroad Company, says that the company has about 400,000 in the Maverick Bank, and is probably the largest creditor of the institution. "Whatever the bank pays less than 100 cents on the dollar the Boston and Malne will lose, but is abundantly able to stand it. The company would have used this mohey to pay its dividends on November 16, but stockholders will get their 4 1-2 per cent on that day, as usual. The Boston and Maine carns $1,250,000 a month, and can pay 8 per cent per annum, year in and year out."

Thomas Dana's ball has been reduced to $40,000 from $75,000. Charles A. Browning, of Boston, has been accepted as bondsman.

One of the most interesting questions recently raised in connection with the Maverick Bank failure is "Are the directors guilty of forgery?" A SCHOOL FOR TEACHING GIRLS TO SEW. The industrial school of the Eighth Ward, at No. 1 Charlton-st., began its winter term yesterday afternoon Appropriate exercises were observed, consisting of singing, followed by prayer offered by the Rev. Jacelyn Johnstone, and addresses by the Rev. Dr. Tuttle, the D. Parker Morgan and the Rev. Jocelyn Johnstone. Refreshments were served. Sixty-five girls were present, and one hundred are expected next week, when the regular work of the term begins, which continues till after Easter. The sessions, which will be held each Saturday from half past 2 till 4 p. m., ar for the purpose of teaching the girls to sew. The school is conducted under the patronage of Mrs. M. Laidlaw, and was founded by her fourteen years ago. Four teachers are employed, Miss Ellen V. Nelson, the head teacher, having been connected with the school for the last ten years. The children, whose ages range from eight to fifteen years, are from the poorer classes. The course of instruction continues three or four years, and consists of hand and machine sewing, by means of which the girls are enabled to earn a respectable living. The expenses for the coming year are defrayed the Rev. Dr. D. Parker Morgan and the Church of the Heavenly Rest. Mrs. Laidlaw also furnishes a home for twelve orphan boys, five of whom are attending school and the others learning trades, but as yet are anable to support themselves. She has at different imes afforded a home for more than fifty boys till they were old enough to earn their own living, and they are now engaged in useful employments. Mrs. Laidiaw helps to clothe these children, and would be glad to receive contributions of cast off garments from any who may feel charitably disposed. FISH COMMISSIONER M'DONALD'S TRIP TO NEW YORK AND NEW-ENGLAND STREAMS. Washington, Nov. 7.—It is stated at the United States Fish Commission that, "in accordance with his plan of making a prompt and lasting impression upon waters to be stocked, United States Fish Commissioner McDonald will introduce large numbers of yearling fish of the salmon family into suitable stream the various stations adapted to the purpose rearing ponds have been established, and are being multiplied as rapidly as circumstances will permit. One of the cars of the Commission left Washington on Thursday ast, with carp for New-York and New-England, and received yesterday in good condition from Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., 3,500 yearling California salmon to be planted in the Battenkill, in Vermont, and certain of Its tributaries. A. N. Chenoy, angling editor of " Shooting and Fishing," went to the Battenkill Valley re cently to select streams favorable for the undertaking brook, Benedict Brook and Mattison Brook, tributaries of the Battenkill River. The waters are clear, free from sawdust, and well supplied with fish food. The entiment of the people is favorable to their protec tion. Mr. Cheney will meet the car at Troy, and per sonally assist in the distribution of the saln The United States Commission has never distrib any of the California species in New-York, but simply furnished eggs for hatching and planting by the New York Commission. The unqualified success of the alnbow trout in the Battenkill, announced in "Forest and Stream," on September 10 in a lecture from Genera William Y. Ripley, of Vermont, gives ample assurance that the Californian salmon will find con ditions favorable to their growth in the same waters, as both species do well together in their native streams

Preliminary to the distribution of land-locked salmor from Maine, General William Y. Ripley, of Rutland, Vt., made a survey of the rivers of the State. tributary to Lake Champlain, to select proper place cking with this species. It is the desire of the Commissioner to hold the salmon in the street until maturity, when they could go down to the lake to spawn, and need not return to the rivers. In the selection of rearing waters, therefore, this element was not considered important, and the range of choice was wider. The following distribution, suggested by General Ripley, will be made: Winoosky (at Waterbury), 6,000; Brown's River, (for the Lamoille), 5,000; Indian Brook, 2,000; Wallett's Creek, 1,000; Sunderland Hollow Brook, 1,000; Lewis Creek, 5,000; total. 20,000. The young fish will be placed in waters as far renoved as possible from the lake, in order to avoid the pickerel and other predatory fish which abound in the ower portions of all the rivers. Sunderland Brook is lower portions of all the rivers. Sunderland Brook is particularly promising for the protection of the salmon, as it carries a bountial supply of pure water and runs for miles through an inaccessible alder swamp. Lewis Creek, although small, is considered as the best stream for the purpose. The Commission will have the cooperation of State Commissioner Atherion, General W. W. Henry and S. C. Gainei in the safe accomplishment of this important work. The results already obtained from experiments with land-locked salmon in Lake Champlain prove the wisdom and desirability of the undertaking.

PRINTED MATTER MAY BE IMPORTED BY MAIL Washington, Nov. 7 .- Acting Secretary Spaulding has ssued a circular to customs officers in regard to importations of printed matter by mail which provide that "hereafter all printed matter imported through the malis may be released at the discretion of collectors and other chief officers of the customs upon payment if a fine equal to the duties. When ever the duty on printed matter found in the mails does not amount to 50 cents in any one case the duty may be remitted and the matter permitted to go for ward in the mail. All printed matter relating to lotteries is excluded from the benefits of this circular, which is also not applicable to importations by mail from countries having special packet post treaties with the United States, such being subject to delivery on payment of duties."

In order to obtain the benefits of this arrangement, every package destined for the Exposition should have affixed to it by the foreign shipper one or more labels representing the flag of the country to which it belongs. This lapel should be about 8 by 12 inches in size, and should bear across the face. In plain black letters the insertption "Exposition at Chicago." All packages should be plainly marked, as follows: (1.) "Collector of Customs, Chicago." (2.) "Exhibits for Columbian Exposition." (3.)
